

December 3, 2006

Jay,

I want to thank you for the great job you and your team did in carving the seven (7) brick relief sculptures for the new University of Southern California Galen center project. The 10 wide by 40 foot tall sculptures are the talk of the campus and the town. The artwork has helped make Galen Center a new Los Angeles landmark and a great setting for athletics, concerts, and community events.

Capital
Construction
Development

Your continuous attention to detail, care, passion, and talent showed in all of your efforts to complete the sculptures. The brick masons on the site appreciated your assistance in training them on the proper way to lay the brick and in getting them trained for what they have described as a chance in a lifetime to install. I also feel managing the design and construction of Galen Center is a once in a lifetime experience and the brick artwork is a big part. I thoroughly enjoyed the two months of early Saturday morning visits at the plant while you were carving and watching the progress of the art unfold.

The brick relief is constantly changing during the day as the light changes and gives the building life. They also look great at night when the lights are on. I am not sure which "look" I enjoy the most - but the distinctive look of the artwork make Galen Center extremely recognizable day or night.

I strongly recommend you to others as a great person to work with, someone who stayed on schedule, and who helped make Galen center the huge success it has become. I hope we get to work together on another project.

Sincerely,

Stan Westfall, AIA
Project Manager
USC Capital Construction

Phone: 213.821.1944